THE TRANSPORTATION CENTER at Northwestern University began its formal program in the autumn of 1956. Since then it has assumed progressively greater importance as an independent, national center for education, basic research, and service to the transportation industry and the nation.

RESEARCH The Transportation Center's research program is planned to provide a better understanding of transportation, its relationship to the economy, and its contribution to our national economic growth. In pursuing these objectives, the research program draws upon authorities in various sciences at Northwestern University and other institutions throughout the nation.

EDUCATION The educational program is concerned with developing and encouraging the interest of outstanding scholars at Northwestern and other universities in applying their disciplines to the field of transportation. In addition to the purely academic program, the Center is concerned with presenting the results of university research and the skills of various disciplines to executives in the industry through a series of courses and conferences.

Activities of the Center are guided by a national Advisory Committee of some of America's top transportation and industry leaders. Over 100 companies in air, highway, rail, pipeline, and water transportation, and in general business, contribute to the support of the Transportation Center.

THE TRAFFIC INSTITUTE
1804 Hinman Avenue . Evanston, Illinois

THE TRAFFIC INSTITUTE of Northwestern University is a national organization dedicated to a program of training, research and development, extension and field service, and publications in the field of street and highway traffic.

From its beginning, the Traffic Institute program has been conceived, developed, and carried out in response to the most pressing needs of official agencies with responsibilities in the supervision of motor-vehicle traffic.

TRAINING The Traffic Institute's extensive training program helps develop highly skilled personnel who can bring new and improved techniques to bear on the traffic problems of their communities in every capacity -- law enforcement, court adjudication, driver licensing, and engineering.

FIELD SERVICE Through its field service program the Traffic Institute provides on-the-spot technical service and training to help state and municipal government agencies develop and install an effective traffic supervision program.

PUBLICATIONS Serving as the most extensive source of technical and training information in the field, the Traffic Institute publications program provides authoritative written material on all aspects of street and highway traffic.
